IT'S THAT WOMAN
IN RED AGAIN

Bugs and Daff seek treasure

You'll find the answer to all your pressing questions about the famous Arabian Nights legend in Bugs Bunny's hilarious new movie (which also happens to be his 3rd full length feature film) fittingly titled Bugs Bunny's 3rd Movie: 1001 Rabbit Tales (Warner).

Everyone's favourite rabbit, Bugs Bunny, and his wise-cracking friend, Daffy Duck, star in this delightful tale that's right out of the Arabian Nights. Well, almost! Bugs, Daffy and all the Warner Bros. characters add their own special twist to some old and loveable tales.

Bugs and Daffy are two book sellers, both eager to outsell the other. But things don't always work out as they should and Bugs and Daffy find themselves deep in the desert. Daffy falls upon a hidden treasure and schemes to get it past the meanie-genie guarding the gate.

Bugs, on the other hand, is constantly on the move determined to sell all of his books. Imagine his joy when he comes across the hugest palace in the world smack in the middle of the desert. No, it's not a mirage. It's real. And it means real trouble for Bugs and all who enter.

Does Bugs ever escape from the clutches of Sultan Yosemite Sam and Prince Abadaba?

Does Daffy get out of the genie's cave alive and wealthy?

These questions are all answered when Bugs, Daffy, Sylvester, Tweety, Speedy Gonzales, Sultan Yosemite Sam and the rest of the Warner Bros. gang star in this fun and fanciful adventure.

Rated G.

Kelly Le Brock, the beautiful fashion model turned actress who stunned the socks off everyone in The Woman in Red is back again doing just that in Wierd Science (CIC). It is a teen-oriented comedy about a couple of high school students who have so much trouble chatting up girls, they decide to create one of their own via their home computer. Their creation is none other than Kelly who teaches them that they have the ability to mix socially without anyone's help. Watch out for the colourized version of the original black and white Frankenstein movie on the boy's TV; I wonder if we'll see it on video soon?

Rated M. Available mid August.
